FOLLOWED BY CURIOUS BOATERS, BALLOON SKIMS THE HUDSON OFF KINGSTON.

Reporter Goes Up in a Balloon... Boys

By TIM SCHUSTER

KINGSTON

We perched on the cliff Saturday evening at Upper Hasbrouck Park in the gondola of Lark cigarettes' 70-foot hot air balloon, listening as a few blasts on the propane regulator filled the expanse of red nylon, and then we took off.

I was riding high over the Rondout Creek, the boat basin below, downtown Kingston and out over the majestic Hudson with one of the premiere balloonists in this country and probably the world.

Bob Sparks, who tried unsuccessfully to cross the Atlantic Ocean last summer in a hot air balloon and vows he will try again, was as ecstatic over the beauty of the flight.

Rising quickly to about a thousand feet with a few blasts of heat, we waved at the hundreds of people down below who were caught up in the excitement of the event.

Then Sparks, with almost 2,000 flights to his credit, did something he had never done before. I joined in eagerly, enjoying the thrill of the moment.

We dropped a long rope to a motor boat below us with the boat owner's kind permission and for about a half hour they towed us down river while we floated up and down on air currents as the feeling moved us.

Hot air balloons cannot be directed. They go where the convection currents carry them, but a skillful person can play those currents and always has his eye open for a patch of ground on which to land.

Finally reaching Ogden Mills State Park across the river in Hyde Park, we dropped the balloon onto a grassy area with the aid of some enthusiastic boaters and spent the next hour waiting for the van to arrive from Kingston as Sparks demonstrated to the somewhat startled people in the park who watched us drop from the sky just how the balloon works.

But in telling his fellow crew members of our fantasy flight from the cliffs overlooking Kingston, he vowed to return to the same site the next day and share the experience with them. And as the sun set among purple strated clouds over the Catskills, a reporter who had gone the gamut of turbo-trains, jet planes, helicopters and cabin cruisers in the course of a story at various times felt a sudden loss in having both of his feet planted firmly to the ground.

No Secret Deal

Kissinger Denies It

HENRY A. KISSINGER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today branded as "totally false in every detail" assertions that he negotiated a secret agreement giving the Soviet Union more nuclear missiles than publicly announced in the first round of the strategic arms talks.

Such reports, Kissinger said in a news conference, "have no merit whatsoever."

The secretary was referring to assertions by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., that Kissinger may have negotiated some type of understanding that would allow Moscow to build submarine-based missiles in excess of the 950 allowed under the SALT I agreement signed in Moscow May 27, 1972.

The question was raised publicly by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., the subcommittee chairman, after resigned disarmament advisor Paul Nitze gave the panel some details about it last Thursday.

Jackson charged that the Nixon administration had revised the agreement with the Soviets and had failed to fulfill its pledge to consult with Congress.

Kissinger, however, told reporters after a session Friday with the Senate Armed Services Committee "that view must be based on a misapprehension of the negotiations."

Sources reported that two things are involved in the dispute: A reported decision to permit the Soviets additional submarine-based missiles, while lowering the U.S. level, and a separate one to permit the Soviet Union additional missile silos, tabbed for command posts but considered potential launchers.

Jackson, who has been a leading critic of the administration's detente policy with the Soviet Union, called "rather startling" both the information about the changes and the way in which it was discovered.

Sources said the original agreement called for the Soviet Union to increase its total of submarine-based missiles from 740 to 950 while the United States raised its from 656 to 710. Both sides, in turn, would scrap some older land-based missiles.

Under the revision, the sources said, the Soviet Union gained an additional 70 missiles while the United States agreed to keep its total at 656.

One possible explanation is a reported agreement under which the Soviet Union was permitted to convert 22 older submarines to carry 60 to 70 missiles without these being included in the 950.

Jackson said that neither Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger nor Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, knew of the arrangement.

Efforts to contact Melvin R. Laird, who was defense secretary when the agreement was reached, were unsuccessful.

According to the UPI, Kissinger will undoubtedly be questioned as to whether his "public honor" has been sufficiently vindicated for him to withdraw his threat to resign. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is investigating charges that Kissinger lied when he told the committee that he had only supplied the names of individuals to be tapped by a team trying to stop national security leaks.

Kissinger's diplomatic methods were in the news again Sunday. The New York Times Magazine reported that the secretary of state clashed with Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger over giving Israel military aid during last October's Arab-Israeli war.

In excerpts from a forthcoming book, CBS reporters Bernard and Marvin Kalb said Kissinger tried to carry out presidential orders to aid Israel but met with Pentagon resistance.

Brussels Is Initial Stop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has a short visit with his old NATO allies this week and a longer one with his old enemies of the Soviet Union.

The planned trip may show how much the diplomatic world has changed since the Atlantic Alliance was formed in 1949 as a warning to the Russians that Europe was protected by the U.S. nuclear umbrella against possible communist invasions.

President Nixon goes to Brussels Tuesday to sign a new version of the Atlantic Charter and meet with European leaders, who saw the NATO alliance under extreme tension during last year's Arab-Israeli conflict. Nixon then travels to Moscow for a summit meeting where he is expected to expand on spirit of detente.

The Russians had even planned for Nixon to spend a day at Yalta, site of the World War II meeting of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Russian Premier Josef Stalin and England's Winston Churchill, at which agreements on eastern Europe were criticized by Nixon and other conservatives as a "sellout" of United States interests.

Two Choices for Hospital

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

City officials appear no closer to a final decision on the old city hall at 408 Broadway despite a lengthy meeting on June 17 held in Mayor Francis R. Koenig's office between representatives from the city lab, county tumor clinic and Kingston Hospital.

Maver Koenig allows that the situation is "a little more complicated than I thought because of the lab going into the hospital. We'll have to take a new look at it," Koenig suggested.

What Koenig looked at, along with Wilbur Peters and Anthony Trilzi, representing Kingston Hospital, Dr. Herbert Derman, representing the city lab and the old former nurse's residence, the county tumor clinic, Peter J. Savago, representing the city lab and the city hall, the county's interests in the tumor clinic, was the hospital's plans for expansion onto the city hall site.

Hospital officials have now declared those plans, presented at a public hearing in August of 1972 as "obsolete" and have hired a consultant to come up with long range expansion plans for the hospital. The hospital would have two choices: expand onto the city hall site or move out of town and convert the present hospital facility into a nursing home.

Under the old plan, the hospital would have acquired all the buildings to the north of its present facility, including representing the city lab and the old former nurse's residence, the county tumor clinic, Koenig pointed out one inaccuracy in a story filed in the Freeman on Tuesday. Common Council Leader Peter J. Mancuso was not in attendance at the Monday meeting.

And Koenig defended his statement that "no one has come forward with a use for the old city hall." He allows that Kingston Hospital has offered to purchase it, but points out that they do not want the building they want the land and would demolish the building after acquiring it.

As for an auction on the contents of the building, which Koenig suggested as long ago as the spring of last year, the mayor now refers questions to the Building and Supply Committee, chaired by Alderman Emilio A. Primo.

Weekend Fatafs In Ulster, Dutchess

By MATT SPIRENG

TOWN OF NEW PALTZ
Two persons were killed and seven others injured in six separate one-car accidents over the weekend and early today in Ulster and Dutchess counties.

A 45-year-old New Paltz man died late Sunday at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie after sustaining multiple internal injuries when his car slammed head-on into a tree on Route 208 south of New Paltz Sunday afternoon. Killed was Saad I. Boulos of Duzine Road.

Killed in Dutchess County late Saturday night was Michael Beyer, 17, of 147 Roosevelt Road, Hyde Park. Dutchess County Sheriff's Deputies said the youth was a passenger in a car which slammed into a tree.

In the New Paltz fatal crash, Town Police said Boulos was driving south on Route 208 at about 3:30 p.m. when his car ran off the right side of the road, knocked down seven guard rails and several small trees, and then slammed into a large tree.

Police said another crash occurred in almost exactly the same spot Friday night. In that mishap the driver, Ernest W. Paquette, 51, of RD 3, Walkill, escaped with only minor injuries and was treated and released at Kingston Hospital. Police said Paquette missed the tree struck by Boulos, but did strike a bridge abutment. Paquette was issued summonses for driving while intoxicated and speed not reasonable.

The Hyde Park fatal mishap occurred at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday when a car driven by Joseph Mesuda Jr., 18, of 7 Wright Avenue, Hyde Park, ran off Crum Elbow Road, struck a utility pole and then slammed into a tree. Mesuda was listed in guarded condition today at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie. Beyer was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital following the crash.

Meanwhile, a 26-year-old Kingston man was listed in poor condition today at Benedictine Hospital after he reportedly swerved his car to avoid a dog early Sunday on Clifton Avenue and struck a utility pole.

Police said the driver, Raymond G. Mikesh of 57 Smith Avenue, allegedly drove off after striking the pole and was picked up on nearby Van Gaasbeck Street. He was charged with driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident, and three counts of possession of a controlled substance after police found a quantity of allegedly illegal capsules.

The crash occurred shortly before 7 a.m. Sunday. Elsewhere, Ciro Maganaro, 52, of 11 Rock City Road, Woodstock, was injured early Sunday when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a deer

New York Youth Killed in Fall

HARRIMAN, N.Y. (UPI) — A 20-year-old New York City youth was killed while on a nature hike in a field near this Orange County community Sunday when he fell from a tree while trying to take pictures, police said.

Evan Arthur of Manhattan struck his head on a three-foot stone wall at the base of the tree, authorities said.

According to police, Arthur had been staying at the Ananda-Ashram Country Retreat in Harriman for yoga meditation. Companions said that Arthur had climbed the tree to take pictures when they heard a branch crack and saw him fall.

Nyquist Rules Against Paltz School Psychologist

ALBANY — New York State Commissioner of Education Ewald B. Nyquist has dismissed an appeal brought against the New Paltz Central School District by school psychologist Daniel Ward, who contended that duties performed by the "school community service coordinator" duplicate his duties as school psychologist.

Ward was hired to the full-time position in 1966, but because of funding problems was reduced to part-time status in 1972. Since the start of the 1973-74 school year, he has been working three days a week.

He claims that the new "school community service coordinator" (a full-time position) infringes on his duties and contends that, as a tenured employee, he should be allowed to return to full-time status.

Ward also maintained that the "school community service coordinator" performs functions "similar if not identical" to his duties as school psychologist.

New Paltz school officials, on the other hand, claim the two positions are distinctly separate.

Nyquist agreed that the two jobs are different. After describing the specific functions of both the school psychologist and the "school community service coordinator," he said: "On the basis of the record before me, I cannot conclude that (the school district's) creation of the position of school community service coordinator and its appointment of another individual to such position violated (Ward's) tenure rights under Education Law . . . Since the positions in question are not similar within the meaning of existing law and the newly-created position does not embody a substantial portion of petitioner's former position, this appeal must be dismissed."

Angell Seeks Voter's Views With Bike Campaign in 25th

POUGHKEEPSIE — Nick Angell, who is running for Congress, as a Democrat, in the 25th Congressional District, is going to walk and bike his way throughout the entire District, talking to voters as he goes.

Angell's trip will kick off tomorrow at 10 a.m., commencing in front of his campaign headquarters at 295 Main Mall, in Poughkeepsie. His first day's route will take him across the Mid-Hudson Bridge to Highland, in Ulster County, which he will walk in the company of Jon Decker, Lloyd town supervisor. From Highland, he will bike, by a varied route, to the Burroughs Home and Park in West Park.

"The basic idea of this walk-and-bike is to educate me!" said the 41-year-old Putnam County resident. "I want to know what the people of the 25th Congressional District have got on their minds. The only way to find that out is face-to-face, listening to what's bothering people, offering my own ideas in turn, and then hearing how the electorate responds to those ideas."

Angell went on to state that his journey through the District would take about six weeks, and would cover a route that would pass through every county comprising the District. He does not propose to walk and bike continuously, but to make his farthest point of progress after a day on the road, and start again at the same spot when resuming the tour.

"Our lives today move too quickly, and there is a certain anonymity, a don't-care quality, in everyone's existence," said Angell. "I'm running for Congress, and it seems vital to me to get in touch with the people of this District, even if it takes a little sweat and a few blisters."

Angell expects to bike a total of 496 miles, 37 in Ulster, with most of the mileage coming in Dutchess County, almost 255. Between walking and biking, he said he expects to cover about 1,000 miles.

CAMPAIGN IN GEAR — Candidate Angell gets in some training time on his 10-speed bike prior to tour of the 25th Congressional District where he is seeking election.

Panel to Decide on Public Hearings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee is expected to decide this week whether to make public most of the secret evidence it has examined during its six-week impeachment inquiry.

The trial of former White House domestic affairs adviser John D. Ehrlichman and three other defendants, including G. Gordon Liddy, architect of the original Watergate break-in and bugging, begins Wednesday. Ehrlichman and the others are accused of plotting the 1971 burglary at the office of Dr. Louis Fielding, the Los Angeles psychiatrist who treated Daniel Ellsberg, who was charged with leaking the Pentagon Papers. Convicted presidential aide Charles W. Colson, who was sentenced to three years in jail Friday after pleading guilty to obstruction of justice in the Ellsberg case, is expected to be the government's main prosecution witness. The Senate Watergate Committee will wind up more than a year of work at week's end.

but the probe which captured the nation's attention during the summer of 1973 will leave many questions unanswered about President Nixon's involvement. Central among them are what happened to the mysterious $100,000 "contribution" billiardaire Howard Hughes gave to President Nixon's best friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, for safe-keeping during the 1972 campaign. After more than a year of hearings at a cost of over $2 million, the committee decided not to press the investigation any further. "Time has just run out on us," Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., the vice chairman, told reporters last week. Rep. Peter W. Rodino is pushing his leak-plagued House Judiciary Committee to release most of the material it has considered in secrecy, but publication of any of the evidence will probably be delayed until after a jury is selected in the Ehrlichman trial.

Rodino has said he wants any references which might endanger rights of prospective Watergate defendants edited out of the panel's report. The Judiciary Committee is also expected to begin calling witnesses, including Colson, to testify about President Nixon's involvement in Watergate or its cover-up. Colson told U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell at his sentencing Friday that Nixon had ordered him to "disseminate damaging information" about Ellsberg while he was awaiting trial because the White House feared Ellsberg might become a "hero in the eyes of the American public." Presidential lawyer Leonard Garment Sunday said that President Nixon was guilty of nothing illegal even if he did order the White House to conduct a campaign of defamation against Ellsberg. Rodino has promised the committee will vote on returning articles of impeachment against the President during the week of July 22. —Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Saturday that a third "neutral" party other than the White House or House Judiciary Committee should listen to and transcribe the Watergate tapes.

Impropriety Hinted in Hughes' Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. attorney general's secret approval of the extension of billionaire Howard Hughes' gambling empire was linked closely to a $100,000 payment by Hughes to President Nixon's closest friend, the staff of the Senate Watergate committee reports.

The report to senators said the apparent decision by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to approve Hughes' purchase of the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas violated the department's own antitrust regulations and "is clothed with the appearance of impropriety."

"Except for the fact that the purchase negotiations ultimately fell through for financial reasons wholly unrelated to antitrust considerations, this is a classic case of governmental decision-making for friends," the report said.

The staff report, as yet unapproved by the full committee, was prepared after nearly a year of investigation into the payments made in 1970 to C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a Florida banker and long-time friend of the President's.

Written under the direction of assistant chief counsel Terry Lenzner, the report is the first section of a comprehensive report on the controversial Hughes-Rebozo money. It explores the theory that a "quid pro quo" link did exist between those payments and efforts by Hughes to expand his hotel and gambling holdings in Las Vegas.

In Washington, efforts to free Kudirka and to get his mother out of Lithuania have centered on Capitol Hill, where Hanrahan and others have contacted administration officials on the cases and introduced resolutions in Congress.

A resolution introduced by Hanrahan in the House and by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., in the Senate calls for Kudirka's release or at least assurance from the Kremlin that he is alive and well.

that after a series of secret meetings from which antitrust attorneys were excluded, Mitchell on March 19, 1970, approved the Dunes purchase.

The report said that after Danner returned from one such meeting, "Maheu set in motion one of the two $50,000 contributions to Rebozo."

It quoted Maheu as saying there were "certain political obligations that had to be met" as the result of the Danner trip and that a Hughes lawyer had been ordered to pay out the money.

"The essential point here is that Maheu remembered a clear connection between the Danner-Mitchell meetings and the contribution to Rebozo," the committee report said.

"I remember telling Danner Hughes representative. He has said he took no part in the meeting every day this week to complete and issue its final report by Friday.

In such investigations, "rarely do the facts and explanations point clearly to a conclusion showing improper conduct," the staff report said.

"The facts of this case however, pointedly suggest impropriety of a significant degree and raise serious questions about campaign contributions and Justice Department practices," it said.

The Watergate committee is Mitchell, Nixon's presidential campaign manager in 1968 and for part of 1972, has denied ever discussing campaign contributions. Danner also has said he only discussed the antitrust matter with Mitchell.

Rebozo has said the $100,000 in $100 bills was intended as a campaign contribution but in Danner-Mitchell meetings and the safety deposit box for three years and then returned to a committee decided not to press the investigation any further. "Time has just run out on us," Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., the vice chairman, told reporters last week.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino is pushing his leak-plagued House Judiciary Committee to release most of the material it has considered in secrecy, but publication of any of the evidence will probably be delayed until after a jury is selected in the Ehrlichman trial.

Nixon Is Briefed On Lithuanian Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The case of a Lithuanian sailor forced back to his Soviet vessel said his mother, Mrs. Marija with the permission of the Coast Guard was among items on which President Nixon was briefed in preparing for his Moscow summit trip.

Simas Kudirka, 45—said to be an American citizen—is in a Soviet labor camp in the Urals serving a 10-year prison term for treason. There has been no contact with him since October. His wife and two children and mother are living in Lithuania.

He jumped from his Soviet ship to the cutter Vigilant Nov. 23, 1970, off Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts, but the Coast Guard allowed the Russians to take him back. Reaction in Washington was an official "unfortunate" from the State Department. White House orders to prevent it from reoccurring, plus congressional protest.

Since then, Lithuanian groups in the United States have said they can prove Kudirka is an American citizen. Part of their claim is supported by the fact his mother was born in Brooklyn.

Nixon was briefed on the case at Camp David, Md., in preparation for leaving for Moscow Tuesday. Rep. Robert Hanrahan, R-Ill., said Friday. But Hanrahan said there is no assurance Nixon will bring the matter up in his talk with Communist leaders.

Dissident sources from Communist-held countries say they fear Kudirka's well-being because of lack of communication from him.

They doubt he is dead because the Russian underground would have learned about it, but they say there is a good chance he may be ill or in solitary confinement.

The last information received, the sources said, came from a Russian immigrant to Israel who said about eight months ago Kudirka was in good health.

However, since October, registered and certified mail sent to him has been acknowledged only by return receipts bearing the signature of a Soviet prison camp official.

Television Advertising Is Criticized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On the TV screen, a child reaches into a microwave oven for a hot dog. A motorcyclist roars along with a case of beer in tow. A stunt driver goes wild in a new car.

Citing examples like these, a panel of advertising experts said in a study released today that TV ads can lead children and adults who take risks into dangerous misuse of products by careless power of suggestion.

"Advertising can do more than it is now doing to safeguard the users of advertised products without impairing its ability to merchandise those products effectively," the study panel of the National Advertising Review Board said in a report released in Washington and New York.

"Advertisers and agencies do not always recognize that some consumers are particularly vulnerable to suggestion or have limited capacities for judging risks."

It stressed children foremost in the "vulnerable" category, but also said some ads — and panel concludes, "microwave especially those that sell fast, powerful cars — can lead or impressionable adults to commit themselves to hazardous situations which... they cannot manage."

Among its recommendations, the panel urged advertisers and agencies to create ads "with consumer safety in mind" from the beginning. It said they should set up Safety-In-Advertising review panels, whose membership "should include people who are parents of young children."

The study reviewed potential safety hazards in familiar advertisements of many types of products, from appliances and autos to medicines and toys, and recommended corrective do's and don'ts. Some examples:

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 24, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice Warren Burger, his white mane pompadoured and pomaded, is preparing grandly for his date with destiny. In the majestic marble halls of the Supreme Court, he will preside over the historic impasses between the courts, the Congress and an obstructionist President.

For the high court has agreed to rule whether the Watergate grand jury had the authority to cite President

Nixon as an "unindicted co-conspirator" and whether Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski can subpoena some 64 additional White House tapes. If the House later should impeach President Nixon, the handsome, haughty Burger will also preside over the Senate trial. Those who know him say he views his historic role with the greatest gravity. Already, he has asked a former law clerk to research impeachment precedents for him. Burger has also sent for copies of congressional hearings on executive privilege, so he can bone up on the legal issues in the tapes case. He is undeterred by word that Justice William Rehnquist will withdraw from the Watergate cases because of his Justice Department work on national security issues and his close association with the Watergate figures.

Burger has a similar conflict. He not only was appointed by President Nixon but has been a Nixon man for more than 20 years. During the private deliberations of the nine justices, Burger invariably champions the Nixon view on controversial cases. He has been known to switch to the majority side, however, when it has become clear that the Nixon position wouldn't prevail. Reason: Supreme Court sources suggest that Burger doesn't want to appear in public to be a Nixon echo.

He has also had close personal ties to the two embattled law-and-order men, John Mitchell and Richard Kleindienst, who headed Nixon's Justice Department before they were hauled before the courts for allegedly violating the law themselves. Burger even recommended a special prosecutor to handle the Watergate investigation.

Because of these associations, Burger has been urged to disqualify himself from Watergate and to hand over the impeachment gavel to the senior associate justice, William O. Douglas. But the chief justice clearly doesn't intend to miss his hour in the eye of history.

We have spoken to several of the nine justices who say the decision will be left to Burger whether to withdraw from the Watergate cases and the impeachment trial. Within the last two weeks, he has taken time out to dine alfresco in the court garden with his associates Harry Blackmun and Lewis Powell. But no associate justice is likely to suggest to Burger's face that he disqualify himself.

Some colleagues describe him as a conscientious, diligent, decent chief justice. Kleindienst, who told us he had approached Burger for his recommendations on a special prosecutor, praised his integrity.

Most agree that Burger doesn't take his conservative, law-and-order line from Nixon. The chief justice's hardshell views, they say, are his own.

He is so obsessed over the threat of violence that he drives with an armed chauffeur and uses court police as bodyguards. A late caller at his home was startled to be greeted at the door by the white-haired jurist with a drawn pistol.

If Burger isn't the most brilliant jurist to preside over the Supreme Court, he is one of the most pompous. He annexed to his personal offices the court's conference room. He installed a desk so there could be no mistaking that the lesser justices convened in his domain for their deliberations.

He also ordered a length of gold carpet rolled out for them to tread upon as they made their way through a rear hallway to take their seats behind the great mahogany Supreme Court bench.

Writer Nina Totenberg, an alert court observer, reports that Burger leaves imperious, written instructions for his messenger, directing him to "fill water pitcher" or "check ink well." He signs the daily instructions: "This is an order."

Not one to be trifled with, Burger felt his dignity had been offended by a passenger who blew cigar smoke in his direction aboard the Washington-New York Metroliner. The eminent chief justice wrote an indignant letter to the secretary of transportation and put a stop to cigar smoking on the train.

Not detail is too petty, apparently, to escape his attention. Once, he took time out from the court's great decisions to order a non-functioning clock returned to the Capitol.

His pet peeve is the ballooning caseload of the high court. To dramatize this, he has assigned clerks and interns literally to count pages and produce useless statistics. Even the pamphlet distributed to tourists has been revised to include a highlighted item on the heavy caseload.

Under Burger, the court is becoming more bureaucratized and the interaction of the nine justices is becoming less stimulating. One veteran on the court misses the snappy, organized, motivated discussions which he says have been replaced by a looser, dragged-out meetings where lack of preparation is evident.

Inside Report

Panel Is Squeezed

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A squeeze on the House Judiciary Committee, helping to reverse the impeachment tide and give the momentum to President Nixon, was applied by independent actions of the Justice Department and a federal judge.

A highly exercised Deputy Atty. Gen. Lawrence Silberman placed an angry telephone call to John Doar, majority counsel for the impeachment proceedings. Silberman bluntly informed Doar that the Justice Department and the FBI were red hot about leaks from the committee. They simply could not tolerate FBI reports appearing on the front page of every morning's Washington Post.

About the same time, minority counsel Albert Jenner had a lower-keyed conversation with federal Judge Gerhard Gesell. Asked by Jenner for private comment on the committee possibly going into open session, Gesell said no. If committee proceedings went public, the judge warned, he would not be able to empanel a jury in the Ellsberg burglary trial of John D. Ehrlichman and others.

Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey, the committee chairman, quickly responded to Silberman's warning by pleading with fellow Democratic committee members at a caucus that afternoon to summon a little self-restraint in maintaining confidential information. But with jury selection for the Ellsberg burglary trial to begin June 26, Gesell's admonition could keep the proceedings closed until well into July.

Thus, a squeeze has been applied to the committee, dropping morale of the Democratic majority to its lowest ebb since Doar took over last Dec. 20 to bring order out of chaos. While not sufficiently disciplined to prevent leaks, the committee cannot go into the open sessions that would avoid the need for discipline.

Coupled with resurgent Nixonian regularity among the committee's Republicans, the initiative has moved from the impeachment investigators to the President's defense. The 38-member Judiciary Committee is belatedly following the course predicted months ago by senior White House aides: polarization along party lines and disintegration among the 21 Democrats.

Signifying incipient disintegration is the first substantial criticism among committee Democrats of the Rodino-Doar leadership. The complaint is two-fold: First, in retrospect, the committee should have been in open session, closing the doors only for specific confidential points; second, Doar should have conducted the inquiry much more rapidly, even at the sacrifice of thoroughness.

Thus, there is substantial unease among committee Democrats over indefinite continuation of closed-door sessions with the July 15 target date for a committee vote on impeachment slipping into August.

Senior Democrats on the committee are urging Rodino to hold to July 15. House majority leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts is privately exasperated with the delay. Whereas Doar was a hero to House Democrats a month ago, many now grumble that over-preparation of cases was his weakness as the Justice Department's civil rights chief in the early 1960's.

Inflation is running at almost 10 percent. But most disruptive have been the committee's leaks. Democrats privately suspect two anti-Nixon fire-eaters, Reps. Robert Drinan of Massachusetts and Jerome Wadsworth of California, of disastrous wholesale leaks.

The worst blow to the committee's self-respect came from Rep. Joshua Ellsberg, no fire-eater but a Philadelphia Democratic machine politician best known for caution. It was Ellsberg who made the committee Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's persecutor by racing from a closed session with a garbled version of the wiretap affairs. "It was mindless, absolutely mindless," a Democratic member rages. "Ellsberg never says anything, but this time he saw a top secret document and began talking before digesting it."

That aberration partially justifies the prediction by hard-liners at the White House that Judiciary Committee Democrats ultimately would help Mr. Nixon through their excesses. The President's men now want to keep them on the defensive. They may accuse Judiciary Committee Democrats of obstructing justice by defaming and destroying the public images of Watergate defendants, precisely the felony to which Charles Colson pleaded guilty in regard to Daniel Ellsberg.

Divided and demoralized about tactics and procedures, the committee's Democrats now look elsewhere for a revival of impeachment momentum. With good reason, they believe a Supreme Court decision ordering Mr. Nixon to obey the special prosecutor's subpoenas could force the President back on the defense by mid-July. For now, however, he has his congressional inquisitors at bay.

Don't Look Now but We're Broke

The oldest dodge in selling stocks is to say, "There's no way you can lose money on these shares unless the whole United States goes bankrupt." Quietly and unobtrusively, the other week it did.

The Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. William E. Simon, leaked the news that it was just a technicality. Being busted is no technicality to me. I once owed $3,100 and I banged my head against the wall so hard I broke my shoelaces.

The difference between me and the U.S. is that I had to scrounge and sweat to pay it back. What happened to the government is that it reached and passed its legal debt ceiling of 475 billions of dollars, plus 700 million on June first.

The amount that Uncle Sam can go into hock is set by Congress. The President proposed that the Congress raise the amount we can owe by $20 billion, up to a total of $495 billion. The Representatives and Senators, who expect to get paychecks this month, failed to act in time.

It is safe to predict that they will sprint the bill through now. Still, I worry about that debt. It costs $800 million a day to run this country. This comes to about $555,555 a minute all day and all night.

The first Roosevelt administration put us in hock, proclaiming, "We will spend and spend, and elect and elect." All Republican governments—Eisenhower and Nixon—campaign on the premise that we needed less centralized government in Washington and more government in the states.

What we got was more expensive government everywhere—in Washington, the state capital, the counties, the cities and towns. The more taxes we pay, the more money we owe.

Nixon cut the dollar loose from gold because we didn't have enough gold to back our printed money. To simplify something which appears to be complicated—but isn't—in days gone by every paper dollar was backed by a dollar's worth of government gold and, theoretically, anyone could redeem his dollars for precious metal.

Today we have $11 billion in gold and owe $475 billion. European governments are holding $125 billion in dollars spent by our servicemen and tourists. They may, at their pleasure, bale it and send it to Washington for the gold we haven't got.

That isn't all. The Arab and South American oil nations will close this fiscal year with a surplus of $4 billion in American money. What are they going to do with our paper? Where can they spend it? They may present it any time and demand gold, goods or services.

The United States—governmentally and privately—has been living on the time-payment plan for six decades. American citizens owe corporations $800 billion. We are drowning in high living and printing press money. I'm no doomsday prophet. I believe this country is so naturally rich in marketable merchandise underground, on the ground and above the ground that I think it can survive its outrageous folly.

Still, I don't think we should press our luck. The Nixon government is still pricing gold at $42 an ounce, when it is selling on the Swiss market at $155 an ounce. 19 per cent a year, which means that, if you count a dollar as worth a hundred cents now—which is laughable, in less than six years it will be worth a stick of gum at the present rate of inflation.

Inflation doesn't work that way. Ask the Germans. It runs downhill like lava from a live volcano, slowly at first, then with ever-increasing speed, burning everything in its path. If, in 1969, America had wage and price controls, enforced by heavy penalties, inflation would have been slowed to a walk.

We are in it too deep now for controls. Wall Street, which has been in a glacial decline for almost three years, has good stocks priced below their actual worth and can't find buyers. Some investors, trying to salvage the value of their dollars, have invested in gold mines in the U.S. and in South Africa.

Others have dribbled their dollars to Switzerland. A few buy diamonds, rubies and emeralds on the assumption that precious gems will not depreciate in value.

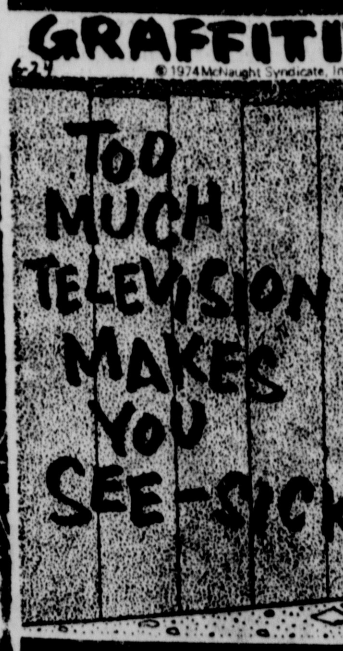

Somewhere, at this moment, a baby is being born. With the first spunk, the long painful breath and thin cry, he owes $2,300 of our national debt. He's in hock up to his ears before he soils his first diaper.

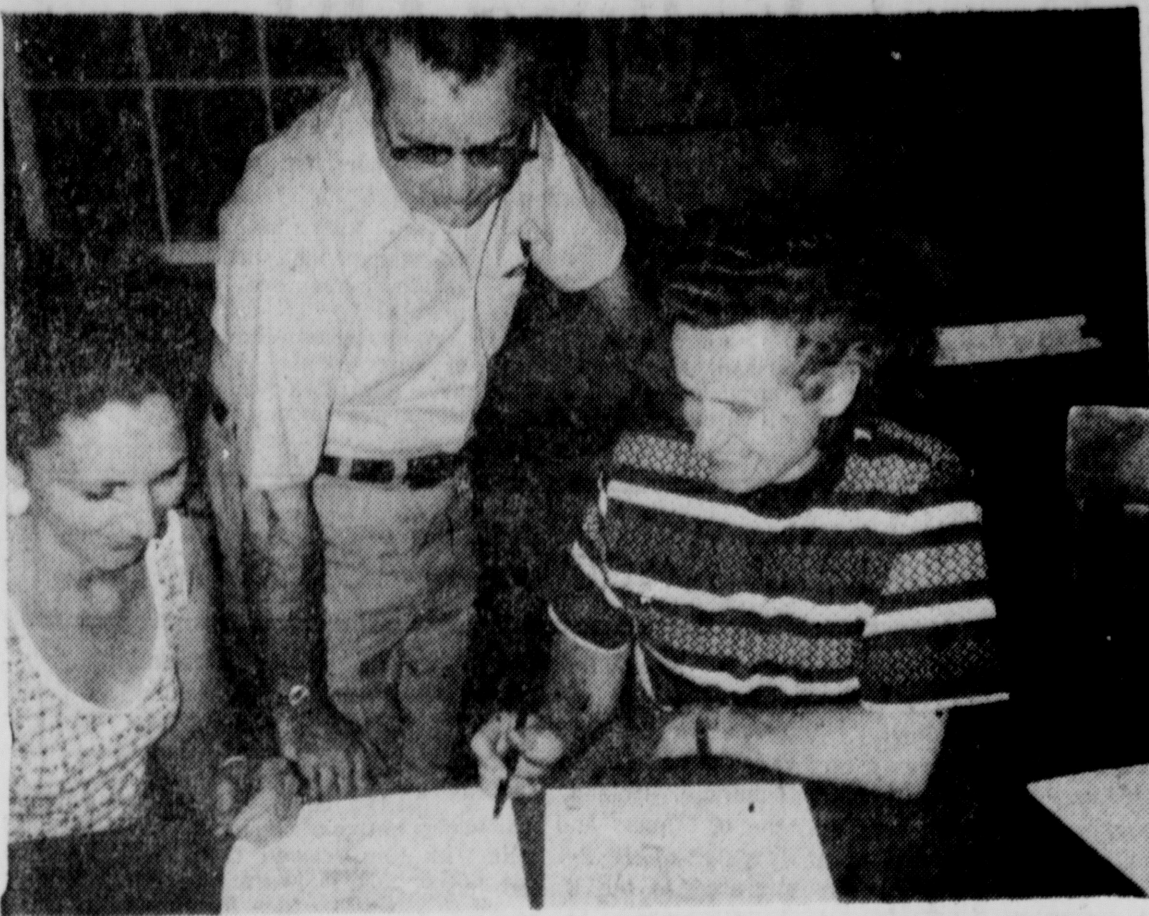

It's an ugly picture. I am not a financial wizard and have no pretensions in that field. But I understand simple arithmetic. It takes a lot of simple-minded people to impoverish the richest country in the history of the world...

Dr. Morse Parade Grand Marshal

SAUGERTIES Retired Superintendent of Schools Dr. Grant D. Morse has been named by the Saugerties Jaycees to serve as grand marshal for the Fourth of July parade.

Dr. Morse, a Saugerties resident for many years, headed the school system there from 1924 to his retirement in 1964. The Blue Mountain Elementary School name was changed to the Grant D. Morse School to honor him.

The parade, part of this year's "Great Day USA" theme, will assemble at 9 a. m. at the high school next to Cantine Field on Washington Avenue. Traffic on Washington Avenue will be restricted from 9 a. m. until noon.

The parade route, beginning at 10 a. m. at the high school, is south on Washington Avenue, west on Russel Street, north on Partition Street, west on Main Street, and north on Market Street to the dismissal at Veterans Field.

The Parking and Crowd Control Committee, headed by Jaycee Bill Pangerc, has been working with village officials, Saugerties town and village police, the fire department, State Police, the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, and other agencies to keep traffic flow as smoothly as possible before, during and after the parade.

Last year over 35,000 people took part in the July 4 celebration, with as many as 18,000 on Cantine Field at any one time. Parade planners anticipate another banner crowd and ask the cooperation of drivers and pedestrians in keeping traffic flowing.

Veterans Field has a new roadway, which will help the parking situation. A reserved parking area has been set up there for senior citizens, CD police, REACT, concessions workers, and working Jaycees.

Additional parking lots will be taken part: 1st Division — at Saugerties High School and color guard, Cong. Ethiopians Kill Nurse, Her Shoe Kept Falling Off

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopian guerrillas killed a Dutch nurse they kidnaped because one of her shoes kept falling off and she couldn't keep up as they ran through the bush, according to her American companion.

Deborah Dortzbach, a pregnant, 24-year-old missionary nurse from Freehold, N.J., who was kidnaped May 27 with the Dutch nurse Anna Stickwerda, said the guerrillas of the Eritrean Liberation Front asked her to relay their apologies for the killing.

Mrs. Dortzbach, who was released unharmed Saturday, told her story to her associates in the Society of International Missions in Asmara, the capital of the northern province of Eritrea. She was reported in good health despite her ordeal but has been in seclusion with her husband Karl in the Asmara area since her release.

The guerrillas kidnaped Mrs. Dortzbach and Miss Stickwerda, who was 54, from an American Evangelical Mission hospital in an area partly controlled by the ELF 25 miles from Asmara.

Mrs. Dortzbach's friends said she told this story:

After they were taken from the hospital at gunpoint, Miss Stickwerda and Mrs. Dortzbach were forced to run through the bush toward a hideout. But the Dutch nurse was unable to keep up.

One shoe felloff repeatedly, and the guerrillas told the woman she would have to hurry. She fell to the ground, gasping, "I can't go on. I can't go on."

A guerrilla bent down and shot her in the head.

There was speculation that the guerrilla might have been frightened into shooting by the appearance overhead of a helicopter. But the helicopter was piloted by Grant Wyatt, a Canadian, instead of by Ethiopian soldiers, and the guerrillas captured Wyatt when he landed nearby.

Wyatt had been hoping to meet ELF leaders and rescue three Americans and two Canadians captured while prospecting for oil three months ago.

Wyatt was later released, but the other five men still are held.

The guerrillas told Mrs. Dortzbach the shooting of the Dutch nurse was a "tactical mistake."

A spokesman for the Society of International Missions said the guerrillas released Mrs. Dortzbach unconditionally.

Gilman Urges Utilities To Seek Oil Price Refunds

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company and Orange and Rockland utilities should investigate the possibility of obtaining oil price refunds from the major oil companies for restraint of trade, Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) urged recently.

In a letter to executives of the two Mid-Hudson utilities companies, Gilman noted that the Long Island Lighting Company has already filed a suit against five major oil companies charging violations of the anti-trust laws by conspiring to restrain and control prices for low-sulphur crude oil on the east coast.

"In the interests of assisting the electrical consumers of our region, Gilman said, 'I urged them to explore these proceedings, in order to obtain a refund of any unwarranted profits from their oil suppliers. 'It is hoped that through such an investigation the utility companies would be able to provide substantial relief to their utility users, he said.

Gilman also met recently in Washington with a delegation of vegetable farmers from the district to discuss legislation dealing with disaster protection. He briefed the group on recent legislative efforts to provide protection for farmers against natural disasters such as Hurricane Agnes, which did millions of dollars of damage in western Orange County in 1972.

"It is extremely important that Congress provide long-term, low-interest loans for farmers, Gilman said, 'raising the overall ceiling on indebtedness for those who have

Funds Paper Issued

BINGHAMTON

As promised, Michael Sloan, who seeks the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 27th District, has issued a statement of campaign income and expenses for the past 60 days.

To date, he said, he has received $1,648.26 and has incurred expenses amounting to $1,389.26.

In a position paper released this week, he also sent out a second call for all candidates from both parties to disclose fully their entire personal financial position.

If they hold local, county or state office, Sloan urges that they submit their resignations immediately to any law firms, boards or profit-making corporations or any formal associations which might be viewed by the public as a conflict of interest.

Sloan also asks that they divulge all sources of campaign contributions on a regular periodic basis.

The bulk of Sloan's campaign expenses (about $1,100) so far went for office supplies and campaign materials with $40 for publicity, $97.23 for salary for a coordinator and travel and special events totaled about $145.

His income has been derived from the following sources: $1,000 loan from Martin J. Hanafin, $100 from George Schaffnerberger; $25 each from Joseph Fitzpatrick and Walter Sawch and $498.26 from Michael P. Sloan.

Conservative Party Tabs Resseguie

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Conservative Party has unanimously endorsed Franklin B. Resseguie as its Congressional candidate in the 27th District.

Conservative Party Chairman William Jackson said that Resseguie, a Binghamton attorney, received the whole-hearted support of committeemen at a recent meeting to run for the seat being vacated by Howard Robison.

"We are very pleased to support such a fine candidate," Jackson said. "It's an excellent opportunity for the 27th Congressional District to send a man to Washington who will represent the voters of the district."

"Mr. Resseguie's principal opponent, the incumbent County Executive of Broome County, was unacceptable because his philosophies are those espoused by the Liberal Party, whose endorsement he has accepted in the past. We believe there are already too many representatives in Washington who advocate a planned economy, permissiveness in our judicial system, and outright amnesty for those who shirked their responsibilities during the Vietnam conflict."

"We're certain Frank Resseguie will represent the 27th District in Washington to the best of his ability and every voter in the district will be proud of his stewardship."

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising interest rates continued to weigh down prices in the stock market today.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down a fraction, and losers took a 9-7 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Just before the opening bell, the First National Bank of Chicago, in an expected move, increased its prime lending rate from 11.5 per cent to an alltime high of 11.8.

Most other major banks now are charging an 11.5 per cent rate on loans to their biggest and most creditworthy corporate customers. Analysts said the Chicago bank's move could presage a general rise to 11 1/2 per cent in the prime within the next few days.

High interest rates have been blamed for much of the stock market's weakness in recent months.

Hopes for a downturn in borrowing costs fueled a brief rally at the beginning of this month, but as those hopes receded, so did stock prices.

Toll-Hike Being Considered On Thruway's 20th Birthday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State Thruway marked its 20th anniversary today with officials contemplating a possible toll-hike to offset sagging revenues.

Thruway officials say the energy crisis began cutting into revenues last winter after the nation's longest toll road registered a $119 million revenue year in 1973—the highest in its two decades.

Scarce gasoline supplies cut 16 per cent off the thruway's revenues and tolls still have not returned to their former levels, officials said.

If the revenues do not return to the upswing, a toll increase may be necessary next year, officials have said.

The thruway opened for business on June 24, 1954 with a stretch near Utica first carrying traffic. The thruway now encompasses some 561 miles from Buffalo to New York City, with spurs into Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

At a rate of 1.7 cents a mile, it is one of the most expensive toll roads to travel.

Thruway officials say they are hopeful that summer weather and vacations will provide the boost in revenues the Thruway needs. But officials say the slump is not serious enough to threaten the Thruway Authority's ability to pay its debts.

R. Burdell Bixby, the publican political strategist who has been chairman of the authority since 1960, called the operation "One of the most successful governmental enterprises in modern times. It is other $60 million in revenues came from the service centers that are open around the clock along the Thruway, officials said.

More than 22,000 men have excavated 80 million cubic yards of earth in constructing the Thruway since ground was first broken in 1946 near Syracuse. Enough sand and stone was used to fill six Empire State Buildings, officials said.

Eighty-five per cent of the state's residents live within 15 miles of the thruway and within that 15-mile corridor lie 37 of the state's 62 cities, including the nine largest.

Three years after the Thruway Authority was created with the power to borrow to construct the toll road Congress created the interstate highway system that allowed construction of similar, but toll-free expressways across the country.

According to Bixby, the authority expects to pay off the $972 million in bonds that financed the highway's construction by 1992. Payment is ahead of schedule by $67.7 million, he said.

Credit Associations and other private lenders. The guaranteed credit would be available to farmers and ranchers whose primary source of income is production of cattle, hogs, milk and poultry as well as feedlot operators.

'Food Marketing Alert'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department is worried because supermarkets have too much beef and pork.

The Department has issued a "Food Marketing Alert" for July which says:

"Beef supplies will continue large... moderately above year earlier levels. Pork production will dip seasonally from June (but) will exceed July, 1973."

The report added that turkey supplies will be at record levels and broiler chicken production will be slightly above a year earlier.

It is a problem because livestock producers say they pay more for their feed than they get for the sale of their animals and birds. The Senate votes today on an attempt to help cattle and hog producers.

A bill to guarantee private lenders against loss on up to 90 per cent of $3 billion in loans to "bona fide" livestock producers.

Individual producers, under the bill, could get loan guarantees of up to $1 million.

In an effort to make the measure more palatable to city lawmakers, farm leaders in the House have drafted a second version with a $350,000 ceiling for individual guarantees.

An aide to Sen. George S.

McGovern, D-S.D., floor manager of the bill, said the measure was expected to pass by an overwhelming bipartisan vote.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who originally opposed the measure, has softened his stand and hinted he might "take another look" if the bill contains safeguards against abuse and strict time limits.

Guaranteed loans under the bill would be made at regular commercial interest rates by banks, cooperative Production operators.

President Nixon called this and gradually decline from the morning with Simon and other economic advisors.

Kenneth Rush, Nixon's newly named economic coordinator, said in an interview with the Washington Post today that the $5 billion budget cut and a $300 spending limit had been decided on for fiscal 1975 starting a week from today.

Prior to the White House meeting, Simon was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show.

"There is no instant cure to inflation—no instant economic cure," Simon said. "We have to get back on the right path of fundamentally sound fiscal and monetary policy to bring this back to an acceptable level."

He added, "We're very much treating this situation as a crisis situation and our forecasts have been that the inflation rate will begin to abate toward the end of this year."

Inflation Rate to Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today the nation's double-digit inflation rate would continue to be "unacceptably high" the rest of this year and that the administration is treating it as a "crisis situation."

At the same time, Simon said government experts believe there will be a reduction in the inflation rate when second quarter economic statistics are compiled, and that the rate will go down later in the year.

The present inflation rate, running about 11 per cent according to latest cost-of-living figures, and a $5 billion budget cut as a means of controlling inflation were among subjects for discussion at a meeting with Simon and other economic advisors.

Kenneth Rush, Nixon's newly named economic coordinator, said in an interview with the Washington Post today that the $5 billion budget cut and a $300 spending limit had been decided on for fiscal 1975 starting a week from today.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post: This is in reference to your recent column about what a minister should do when officiating at the marriage of his daughter.

My husband is a pastor, we have three daughters and we would like to offer this suggestion for solving the "father escorts daughter down the aisle" problem: the bridal party assembles, minus the minister who enters with his daughter. When they reach the end of the aisle they pause, the father turns slightly toward the audience and announces: "Assembled relatives and friends (or congregation), Jane's mother and I are very happy to give her to John to be his wife."

He then kisses his daughter and hands her to John who has stepped forward to receive her while the father moves forward into his position as minister and proceeds with the ceremony. This can be done very smoothly and beautifully and is more meaningful than having someone outside the immediate family give the bride away.

Mrs. Van Someren Dear Mrs. Van Someren: What a nice idea! Many thanks for your sensible and practical solution.

Whom do you tip? When, and how much? You will find the answer to these questions in my booklet, "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send fifty cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post in care of the Daily Freeman.

1974 Bridal Image Enhanced by Hairstyle

The 1974 June bride has the freedom to create many different bridal images, according to the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association (NHCA).

"How the bride wears her hair with her veil and/or headpiece can create various bridal images other than that of the traditional bride," says Louise Cotter of Detroit, Mich., Styles Director for the professional Association of 60,000 United States cosmetologists.

Ms. Cotter, who represents the Association's Special Hairstyling Body — the Official Hair Fashion Committee — has created four different bridal images, all on the same model, to illustrate the freedom of images that are available for the 1974 bride. The four bridal images pictured here are:

A strip of white Cluny lace tied in a 1920's style headband gives today's bride nostalgia and romance. Her short, wavy hair makes the total flapper image complete.

1974 NEW, NOW BRIDE (top right)

Simple tulle veiling with a white flower on top is just right for today's free-thinking bride. An up-to-date professional permanent gives her the freedom to let her hair be loose and beautiful.

A pearl encrusted crown and tulle veiling shaped around the head create a traditional image that gains added elegance when the hair is styled to one side of the face.

A mantilla headpiece and veil of seed pearls develop a regal image enhanced by hairstyling that works together with the headpiece to frame the bride's face.

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cameron Payne of Shady.

La Leche League Meeting Wednesday

The Kingston West La Leche League will hold its next meeting Wednesday, June 26, at 8 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Susan Leatherman, 261 Pearl Street, Kingston. Mrs. Pan Usticke and Mrs. Cheri Andrews, qualified La Leche League leaders, will discuss "The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties."

Mother's milk has been the ideal food for infants for countless generations as breastfeeding was commonplace and the accepted method of nourishment. Outside influence has affected its steady decline and there is great pressure on mothers to bottle-feed instead. New mothers no longer have a ready supply of experienced relatives or friends to call upon for breastfeeding information and support. The experienced mothers of the League are eager to help nursing women by passing along hints they have found successful in coping with their own children. It is this mother-to-mother approach that is the basis of the La Leche League philosophy of "good mothering through breastfeeding."

The best time to attend the meetings is during pregnancy, but all interested women are invited to attend, along with nursing mothers and their infants.

Information on L.L.L. or breastfeeding may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Pan Usticke of West Hurley, Mrs. Cheri Andrews of Tilton, or Mrs. Scogna of Kingston.

Tiny Tips

A baking soda foot soak softens as it cleans. Use one at the end of the day to ease away tensions and perspiration odors.

To save money, use more home-prepared foods and fewer ready-to-heat or ready-to-eat foods.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Harvey is 76, and I am a few years younger. We've been married for two years, both having lost our mates in death.

My problem is his interest in other women. He says he just likes to "talk."

We went to the Bahamas for a holiday, and he took up with an old maid he met in the hotel lobby. She was with a tour, but found Harvey so fascinating she stayed behind and let the group go on without her. (Now don't tell me all he gave her was conversation!)

When Harvey was in the hospital for a few days for tests he called up and an old girl friend, and she came to visit him. Even with me in the room he held her hand, and they talked over old times. The head nurse told him he couldn't have any more visitors after that because it ran up his blood pressure. You can imagine how humiliated I was.

Divorce is not the answer. If it weren't for this thing he has about other women he'd be a good man.

I'm considering inviting two or three women over every day, and let him get all talked out. Should I, or not?

HURT
DEAR HURT: I wouldn't. Harvey might have more conversation in him than you think.

DEAR ABBY: How does a parent deal with this new breed of woman? I need advice on this matter. Somehow I find it hard to accept this business of living together without marrying.

Am I wrong to deny them sleeping quarters together in my house?

My daughter is well educated, with a master's degree from a fine eastern university. She is only dumb where men are concerned.

NO NAMES, PLEASE
DEAR NO: What your adult

offspring do away from home is their business. What they do in your home is YOUR business. If you don't feel right about their sharing sleeping quarters in your home, tell them so. And if they don't like it, they can stay at a motel.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a neighbor who comes over every day as soon as I come home from work at 3:45 p.m.? Her husband travels so she stays for hours. I have no time for myself and absolutely no privacy. Sometimes I've had a hard day at the office and would like to lie down for an hour before I start preparing dinner, but I can't because she's here.

She brings her two preschool children along, which makes matters worse because she doesn't discipline them, and they run wild.

Otherwise she is a good neighbor and does a lot of little favors for me. I haven't wanted to say anything that might hurt her feelings, yet these poorly timed visits are getting to me. Any suggestions?

WEARY
DEAR WEARY: Yes, Tell her you sometimes like to lie down after work so please telephone before coming over. I don't know what "little favors" she does for you, but you're paying a big price for them. Is it worth your privacy? Think about it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DESPERATE OLD MAID:"
At 29 you are far from an "Old maid," so drop that label. And don't act so desperate. Think of yourself as a whole individual, not a half looking for another half.

Rug Braiding Course at UCCC

Mary L. Hanson, who studied rug braiding with Juan Van Cura, a leader in the field, will teach a credit-free Rug Braiding course.

being offered the week of July 15 by Ulster County Community College.

The course will meet from 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday of that week on the Stone Ridge campus. The registration deadline is July 8.

In this course participants will learn the technique of braiding round or oval rugs. They will also learn to lace, taper, butt and dye wool.

Further information about this and other credit-free courses being offered this summer by the College can be obtained by calling the Office for Continuing Education at the College.

RUTH MELITO, left, and Betsy Gulnick, both cooks at Ulster County Infirmary in Kingston, look over the daily work program with Cobleskill College Professor Cole Barnard, campus coordinator for the Food Service Supervisors' Short Course being conducted at the College. The women are among 52 persons currently enrolled in the course which is jointly sponsored by Cobleskill College, the New York State Board of Social Welfare, the New York State Dietetic Association and the State Department of Health.

Open House Slated This Thursday At Temple Emanuel Nursery School

An open house is scheduled at Temple Emanuel Community Nursery School Thursday at 8 p.m. It will be held in the school classroom at the temple. In addition to a discussion of fall policies and plans, parents of children already registered will vote for a Board of Directors and approve a constitution.

Due to the overwhelming response of the community, the possibility will be discussed of expanding the program to include three day a week morning sessions in addition to afternoon sessions. Mrs. Sharon Soltnick, teacher, will be in attendance to welcome all interested parents. Refreshments will be served.

Bus Trip Planned To Mystic Seaport

Members of the Kingston YWCA will be heading for the Mystic Seaport in Mystic, Conn., on Wednesday, July 24. A chartered bus will depart from the "Y" building at 209 Clinton Avenue at 7:30 a.m., and return to the same place at 9:30 p.m.

The tour of the maritime museum will provide a glimpse of 19th Century seafaring life both at sea and ashore. Highlights of the Seaport for most visitors are the Charles W. Morgan, the last of America's wooden whaling ships, the training ship Joseph Conrad, the Gloucester fishing schooner, L. A. Dunton, lying at dockside and open for visitors to come aboard. The group will have the opportunity to visit the workshops where informative craftsmen demonstrate the various trades which served the industry.

In the shipyard they will see the actual work of ship restoration, unique at Mystic Seaport. In the formal museum buildings they can view the magnificent collection of ship models, figureheads, scrimshaw and other artifacts.

Members, as well as the public are welcome. Those wishing to do so may bring a box lunch. There will be a stop for dinner on return trip.

The "Y" is a member of United Way of Ulster County. Details are available at the Y office.

Wins 9th Title by 14 Shots

Randall Made It Look Easy

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON — Leon Randall did what was predicted for him with his usual brilliance and finesse in the 24th annual Ulster County Amateur Golf Championship which ended Sunday at his layout of Wiltwyck Golf Club.

With his longtime friendly rival, Harvey Botstic safely sequestered in the Wiltwyck pro shop and defending champion, Rick Barthel, obviously off his game, Randall easily captured his ninth title with a 54-hole total of 216.

Randall fashioned three consecutive 72's at Sawyerkill, Woodstock, and Wiltwyck to outdistance runnerup Bill Odeneal of New Paltz by 14 shots, close to Leon's all-time tournament winning margin of 18 shots. Odeneal carded 230 on rounds of 77, 75 and 78.

Dr. Henry Jacobs of Wiltwyck, the surprise player of the tournament, fired three under-80 rounds of 77, 77 and 78 to claim third place with 232.

John Buoymaster, the Williams College player from Woodstock, three-time champion, his only bogey of the afternoon Bruhn of Twaalfskill shared a three-way tie at 235.

Jonathan Berger, the Ellenville collegian, was alone at 237 and two Wiltwyck players — George Cosenza and Dick Davenport — tied at 238.

Completing the prize list was a trio at 239—Joe Modica of Woodstock, Dave Blakely of Rondout and Rick Barthel, the defending champion, who is unattached.

It was no contest after the first round at Sawyerkill where Vlad Hoyt's 73 trailed Randall by only one shot. Randall widened his lead to seven strokes Saturday at Woodstock and might just as well have sent the scoreboard out Sunday and said, "okay, fellows, give it a try."

Randall fashioned a nearly flawless round Sunday, reeling off nine straight pars for 36 on the front and extending the streak of pars to 14, before rolling in a curling 15-foot downhill putt for a birdie-3 on the 15th, and John Buoymaster, the Williams College player from Woodstock, three-time champion, his only bogey of the afternoon Berger were among the collegians who placed in the top ten. "I think they're the players of the future," Randall predicted.

Any chance that one of the leaders might make a run at Randall faded quickly on Wiltwyck's rugged front nine. Bruhn, who trailed by seven going into the final round, carded 42. Van Aken and Hoyt, eight shots back, had 41 and 42, respectively. Odeneal made his move through the pack with a 38 to take second place, 10 shots behind the leader and held it to the finish.

Randall accepted victory with characteristic grace. "I didn't play that well," he said. "I hurried some of my shots and I feel I could have played better." The way he played was just too much for the rest of the field. If he missed a fairway, he recovered beautifully and he was usually dead self on the greens.

"Before the tournament started I was expecting some real opposition from Bill Odeneal and John Buoymaster," Randall quipped. "But they let me down. Buoymaster, the collegian who placed in the top ten, I think they're the players of the future," Randall predicted.

CHIP SHOTS: The real surprise package in the tournament was Dr. Henry Jacobs, one of only three players under 80 in all three rounds. He snaked in a 50-foot birdie 4 on the 17th hole. Wiltwyck played extremely "long" for the final round, more than 7,000 yards from the back tees and strong frontal winds on the par three 5th and 8th holes. John Espey and his ground crew had the course in magnificent condition. Where else in the world do golfers eat lunches like those Al Barone dishes up for the county finals at Wiltwyck? Joe Modica lost a cigar bet but made good on his prediction that he would make the prize list.

Jack Parnett, the tournament manager at Wiltwyck, did a superb job supervising details of the final round. High school aces, who had done so well in the first two rounds found Wiltwyck a nightmare. Jim Murray had an "11" on the 7th hole and 96. Jeff Buton had 89 and John Carlson 90.

West Germany's Dynasty Crumbling

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The writing is on the wall for West Germany, one of the world's top soccer teams over the last decade.

At the halfway point in the World Cup, West German fans are seriously worried about Franz Beckenbauer and his men. They started the tournament as favorites, but they are struggling.

The initiative has been seized by two teams from Eastern Europe—Poland, 100 per cent improved after three games, and East Germany, who upset highly rated West Germany 1-0.

The German press is saying rude things about Helmut

Schoen, the manager who took the West German team to the heights.

His once brilliant team has begun to slow down. Wolfgang Overath, Gerd Mueller, Bertie Vogts, Juergen Grabowski, all stars of the 1970 World Cup in Mexico, have failed to make the impact for which German fans had hoped.

The team's disappointing form has taken away some of the glamor of the World Cup for the host West Germans, who have prepared with typical efficiency for this big sports carnival.

West Germany has found its way into the second round, but not very convincingly. Saturday's defeat by East Germany in Hamburg, in the first full international game between the two countries, was a severe blow to national prestige—and to Schoen.

Now 58, he came from East Germany and formerly starred for SC Dresden. He made it plain he wanted above all to win this one.

Poland, Yugoslavia, the Netherlands and Sweden have all looked more penetrating in attack than Schoen's team. All go into the second round with the two Germans, Brazil and Argentina.

West Germany has seven players from Bayern Munich, reigning European club champions, who are accustomed to playing together.

Beckenbauer, at 28, still probably is the best captain in the World Cup. He commands his forces from the back line and seems to see two moves ahead, as a good chess player.

But for all Beckenbauer's inspiring leadership, West Germany simply isn't clicking as it used to.

West Germany starts its second-round campaign in Group B against Yugoslavia next Wednesday. Sweden faces the redoubtable Poles in the same group.

Ali Has to Be Sorry: He Talked Too Much...

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI)

Inevitably, the morning after was to follow the night before and, like so many other transgressors before him, Muhammad Ali looked at things a little differently when he awoke Sunday morning.

He didn't have a hangover because he doesn't drink, but he was palpably, genuinely sorry for what happened Saturday night.

Sorry he had said some of the things he did about heavyweight champion George Foreman. Sorry that what he said had caused the Boxing Writers' Dinner to deteriorate into a dangerous glass flying brawl, and sorry that he had talked too much.

Maybe you'd never believe you'd ever see the day Muhammad Ali would ever admit he talked too much, but Sunday was the day.

"I talked outta turn, and I talked too much," he said. "I was off course."

He said it without any of the usual Muhammad Ali marshmallow either. He said it like a man who honestly believed and meant what he was saying. At least that's the impression he gave me.

George Foreman, who defends his title against Ali Sept. 24 in Zaire, was being honored by the writers Saturday night as Fighter of the Year. He was being presented with the Edward J. Neil Award and Ali was to be the guest speaker. Ali violated rule number one by speaking too long, nearly 20 minutes. He took care of rule number two as well by demeaning Foreman.

"I'm sorry it happened," Ali said.

"I apologize to George Foreman and to all those people who were at the dinner. I apologize for getting on him, talking about him, and bringing him down as a champion. That probably got him upset. Still he had no right to grab my jacket and rip it off."

"Where I was wrong, where I made a mistake was talking about him not being a good champion, not having a hard punch. The whole dinner was to honor him, not me. I shoulda kept that in mind. It's just that I was thinking about the fight Muhammad Ali looked at things a little differently when he awoke Sunday morning.

Second LPGA for Haynie

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Sandra Haynie, the second highest money winner in women's pro golf history, probably never will forget the 17th hole at Pleasant Valley Country Club. But she can smile about it now as the 20th Ladies PGA champion.

The 31-year-old Texan, whose low key belies her fierce competitiveness, survived another brush with near disaster on the 17th Sunday and won the LPGA for the second time with a 72-hole score of 288, four under par.

"This is truly a championship golf course, but I'll think of that hole for a long while," Miss Haynie said. "That hole has cost me two tournaments here and it came close to doing it again."

Nursing a one-stroke lead entering the final round, she teed off in the rain and birdied three of the first four holes. She added another on the 11th green and was six strokes ahead of runnerup JoAnne Carner, a playing partner.

Then she picked up bogeys on the 13th and 16th greens, but there still appeared to be no danger as she headed for the 17th tee with a six-stroke lead. Then she drove into rough near a tree, chipped out and sent her third shot into a bank inches shy of water. She eventually settled for a double bogey six, and a two-stroke lead.

Miss Haynie got par on the last hole and finished with her third consecutive regulation 73 after a first-round 69. She collected $7,000 for her 31st tour victory less than three weeks after her 31st birthday.

Miss Haynie, the 1965 LPGA champion, boosted her earnings for the year to $44,000. She has won $357,000 in her career, ranking behind Kathy Whitworth. Miss Whitworth earned $1,150 for a tie for 10th, boosting her lifetime money nearly $525,000.

Mrs. Carner, a five-time former U.S. amateur champion, had a final round 72 for a 290 total, worth $5,200. Sandra Palmer slipped to a 75 and finished another stroke back.

Courage and Putting: Keys to Colbert's Win

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — When Jim Colbert came on the PGA tour nine years ago the only thing he brought with him were courage and a good putting stroke.

He needed, and used them both to perfection Sunday to win his first tournament of the year—the $170,000 American Golf Classic. In picking up his fourth career triumph, the jubilant Colbert pocketed $34,000 to up his season earnings to $73,671 — good enough for 15th place on the current PGA money list.

Colbert defeated Ray Floyd on the second sudden death playoff hole after Gay Brewer and Forrest Fezler were eliminated on the first extra hole. The four had ended the 72-hole event tied at one over par 281.

Colbert defeated Ray Floyd on the second sudden death playoff hole after Gay Brewer and Forrest Fezler were eliminated on the first extra hole. The four had ended the 72-hole event tied at one over par 281.

"I had overestimated my ability and had underestimated my intestinal fortitude and was beginning to think all I could do was choke when it came to the big ones," said the 33-year-old Colbert, who carded five birdies and four bogeys his final round.

"This time," he said, "I just reversed it and there was more intestinal fortitude and less emphasis on ability. I had only one thing in my mind when I came here and that was to win. If I didn't take it all, I didn't care if I finished second or 95th."

"So I played accordingly and took a lot of chances," he added.

Floyd and Colbert salvaged par three on the first sudden death hole while Brewer and Fezler were eliminated with bogey fours.

This time it was Floyd who could smell the green.

On the par five, 625-yard 16th hole Colbert hit safely to the green in three as the ball landed 20 feet away from the pin. Floyd just cleared a fronting lake on his third shot and executed a good chip shot that trickled past the hole.

"I didn't play it safe at all during the playoff," said Floyd, who sat in the press tent with his wife, Maria, for an hour and 17 minutes after finishing his final round, waiting to see if there would be a playoff.

"I almost picked it in from down on the bank," he said. But after Colbert two putted for a par, Floyd, whose ball went "eight to 10 feet from the hole," missed his putt for par.

The tournament and four-way playoff, the first on the PGA tour since the Kemper Open in 1971, then became history as Colbert raised his arms into the air in happiness.

"I'm really excited," said Colbert. "This was my first victory on national television and you can't get that kind of exposure very often, especially playing such a championship course. I don't know how long the joyride will last, but I'm not anxious to get off because I have a lot more winning to do."

Jim Jamieson, Dwight Nevil, J.C. Snead and Bert Yancey finished at 282 with Tom Kite back another stroke, while four others—including Arnold Palmer—were at 285. Tom Weiskopf had a 286 and U.S. Open Champion Hale Irwin had a 10-over-par 290.

Sports

In Group A on the same day, Holland will meet Argentina and Brazil, the defending champion, faces East Germany.

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — The Italian World Cup soccer team was attacked by more than 500 angry Italian fans today when it left the Neckar stadium after its 2-1 defeat by Poland that eliminated it from the tournament.

The fans attacked several players as they tried to board the team bus, which they surrounded and pelted with missiles.

Police had to move in to protect manager Ferruccio Valcareggi as he attempted to get into his private car. Cries of "you ought to be shot" came from the furious crowd who thronged round Valcareggi outside the stadium.

Team officials predicted a similar welcome when the team returns to Italy. In 1966 after being eliminated by North Korea, the Italian players were pelted with rotten fruit and insults when they arrived home—even though the arrival was timed for the early morning hours at an airport which was chosen at the last minute.

Kingston (general Manager) said he'd had a lot of problems in getting a team together in time and that he was concerned with losing players to the new Marlboro team. There was a proposal to suspend Kingston from the league, but that was defeated."

Boonstra added, "We were mainly interested in playing ball, so really Kingston got off rather lightly. The league really bent over backward to let them play."

Pat Fusaro was the loser as the Indians dropped to 6-2 on the season.

The line score:
Kiwamis 120 100 0-4
Turk Construct'n 030 1130 x-17
WP - John Acker; LP - Emile Jordan.

Eleven runs in the home fourth on four walks, two Kiwanis errors, singles by Jay Foust, Bob Jordan, Lou Fuoco and John Acker and a triple by Foust broke the contest open. It gave Turk a 14-4 lead and was big enough for winning pitcher Acker to get away with 13 walks.

Kiwanis pitchers had their share of control problems as well with three hurlers combining to walk 13 Turk batters. Acker, however, also struck out a dozen to keep the damage down. He only allowed three

Taxes, Impeachment Getting Congressional Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxes, impeachment and concern over the spread of nuclear weapons to the Middle East occupy the attention of Congress this week.

The Senate is resuming debate on tax cut and tax reform measures but chances of proposals passing appear to have evaporated.

House activities include decisions on witnesses for the impeachment inquiry against President Nixon and hearings on whether nuclear power aid to Egypt and Israel could lead to development of nuclear weapons in that region.

Opponents of action on the tax proposals succeeded through filibustering and parliamentary maneuvers in preventing any substantive votes on the issues last week.

They have agreed to permit a roll call test today on a package proposal calling for a $6.6 billion income tax cut and a va oil depletion allowance.

Even if this succeeds, the different items still could be filibustered. And many oil state senators stand ready to talk at the length to protect the depletion allowance.

But even sponsors of the package, led by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., concede it probably will be defeated.

Kennedy then hopes to break the package down into its components and get separate votes. President Nixon by the end of the week, or the ceiling will pass today a continuing resolution to provide funds for all government departments, pending action on the appropriations bills for fiscal 1975, which begins July 1.

Because of the deadline, Congress has not cleared a single one of the required 14 bills.

Also up for Senate passage today is legislation authorizing a $3-billion emergency loan program for livestock producers.

The House Judiciary Committee meets today to discuss what witnesses to call in its inquiry into President Nixon's impeachment.

The House foreign affairs subcommittee on the Near East and on international organizations will conduct jointly the hearings on the nuclear power aid.

Chairmen Lee H. Hamilton, D-Ind., and Donald M. Frazier, D-Minn., said in a joint statement that the questions they want answered include: —How effectively can negotiated safeguards insure that the facilities will not give the Israelis and Egyptians the ability to develop nuclear weapons in the future? —What could be done if the countries decided to denounce the safeguards and begin developing weapons after the power plants were in place?

Disengagement Nearly Complete

By The Associated Press

The Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement in the Golan Heights neared completion today, leaving only the ruins of the town of Quneitra to be given up.

Israeli troops on the Golan Heights handed a one-mile-wide strip of captured Syrian territory over to United Nations forces and retreated to positions west of the 1967 cease-fire line.

The strip was the last part of the 300-square-mile Syrian bulge captured during last October's Arab-Israeli war. The Israeli withdrawal was the third phase in the disengagement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The disengagement is to be completed by Wednesday with the Israeli evacuation of Quneitra, the war-ravaged Golan Heights capital captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

Israel's semi-official state radio reported the withdrawal from southern Lebanon of Syrian soldiers who acted as spotters for artillery batteries that attacked Israeli positions on Mt. Hermon during and after the October war. Israel had charged that the Syrian spotters disguised themselves as Palestinian guerrillas.

In Jerusalem, Premier Yitzhak Rabin said Israel's only chance for survival is to strengthen its defenses while searching for peace. He told a group of Zionist leaders that Israel would continue to attack Arab guerrillas in Lebanon "in every place and at every time it deems necessary."

Yosef Tekoa, Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, said that if the U.N. Security Council meets to discuss Israel's air attacks last week on Palestinian strongholds in Lebanon, he would call for sanctions against countries that allow terrorists to operate from their territory.

The U. S. Navy announced that a Navy landing craft, the 522-foot LST Barnstable County, had moved halfway down the Suez Canal and anchored off Ismailia to serve as a base for American units helping to clear the waterway of wrecks and explosives.

The Barnstable County was the first American ship in the canal since the 1967 war closed it.

Showcase for Political Stars

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The annual meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors this week is serving as a showcase for new political stars among municipal chief executives.

The Democrats especially are making plans for a bigger role in choosing their party's 1976 presidential ticket, and they wouldn't mind having a mayor on it. Included among possibilities for a vice presidential bid are mayors Kevin White of Boston and Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles.

Most of the Republican limelight is on Ralph Perk of Cleveland and Richard G. Lugar of Indianapolis, Ind., both nominees for the U.S. Senate this year, and Pete Wilson of San Diego, considering a 1976 Senate race in California.

But the vast majority of the mayors are Democrats—22 out of the 30 most populous cities—and they are organizing this week to make a formal effort to exercise their political influence on the national scene in the next two years.

The Democratic caucus led by Milwaukee Mayor Henry W. Maier planned a meeting of tonight to discuss methods by which the city chief executives can round up and control a bloc of delegate votes to the 1976 Democratic National Convention.

The Democrats are expected to meet with national party chairman Robert Strauss before the 42nd annual mayors' conference ends Wednesday. It began today.

Sunday, two Democratic mayors said they expected the caucus to wield significant power at the 1976 convention.

Mayor Maynard Jackson of Atlanta said, "We believe the future of America is the future of the cities. We believe the mayors ought to have significant influence at the convention. We would like to see a mayor on the national ticket."

New York Mayor Abraham Beame agreed, but declined to speculate on potential candidates for president or vice president in 1976.

Jackson and Beame were among six mayors interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday. In an interview later Sunday, Boston's Mayor White, 44, said the mayors have enjoyed a resurgence in political influence since they won passage of the revenue sharing program in Congress two years ago.

'74 May Be Worst Tornado Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — From the standpoint of severity, 1974 is shaping up as possibly the worst tornado year in American history.

U.S. government weathermen blame the numerous twisters on especially capricious antics of one of the two high-altitude "jet streams" that help control America's weather.

In response to queries from The Associated Press, the forecasters said:

—There have been 371 deaths and possibly 5,000 injuries so far this year from 658 twisters that have struck in all but 14 states, causing losses in property, crops and animals unofficially estimated at close to $500 million. The death toll so far is the worst since the 450 recorded for the same span in 1953.

—Numerically, the 1974 total of tornadoes could exceed last year's new record of 1,109—a total that led the U.S. National Weather Service to call 1973 "The Year of the Tornado."

The only hope that the numerical record won't be exceeded lies in the fact that the peak months for tornadoes—April, May and June—have essentially passed.

But meteorologist Allen Pearson, director of the Weather Service's National Severe Storms Forecast Center at Kansas City, Mo., says that even if this year's tornadoes have been a "lot more severe" than those of last year, Pearson said they may be the worst of all years past, although comparisons with prior years are not yet complete.

For example, on April 3 this year—the worst single tornado day so far this century, with 93 storms reported—tornadoes cut pathways totaling 2,000 miles long in 14 states.

"That compares—on just a single day, remember—with a pathway of 5,300 miles last year for 1,109 tornadoes in all but four states for the entire year," For all of 1972, he said, the tornado pathway from 740 tornadoes was 2,400 miles.

"To put it another way, the average tornado in 1974 has been running for 10 miles on the ground—compared with about five miles last year. And the worst tornado from that standpoint so far this year—the one that struck Guin, Ala., on April 3—ran for about 150 miles on the ground," Pearson said.

He added these figures:

—The death toll is 371 this year, compared with 65 for the same period in 1973, which had a total death toll of 87.

—So far in 1974, the only states that have not had tornadoes are: Alaska, Utah, Rhode Island and Washington—the only ones to escape last year—plus Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Maine, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Vermont, Oregon and Wyoming.

Pearson said the April 3 tragedy—and the unusual number of twisters throughout the spring—were caused mainly by the unusual antics of the so-called "sub-tropical jet stream," one of two undulating rivers of rapidly moving air, hundreds of miles wide and 20,000 feet deep that whirl eastward around the northern hemisphere at an altitude of five to nine miles.

Surrender Plea for SLA

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A political trial create her own platform if she really believes in political work," Brennan said in a copyrighted interview in the San Francisco Examiner.

"And Bill and Emily Harris should convince her to do this in her own best interest and in the interest of the masses."

Miss Hearst's father, Randolph A. Hearst, is president and editor of the Examiner. The Harisses and Miss Hearst are at large, apparently among the last surviving members of the SLA. Six members of the group, which apparently converted Miss Hearst to its cause after kidnapping her, was killed in a shootout with Los Angeles police May 17.

Brennan once roomed with Joe Remiro, an avowed member of the SLA who is now in jail awaiting trial along with Russell Little on charges of killing Oakland school chief Marcus Foster last November.

Through Remiro, Brennan met Angela Atwood and Willie Wolfe, both of whom were killed in the Los Angeles shootout.

Brennan said he stopped attending study groups and rifle practice with radical groups when a police helicopter was shot down and Marcus Foster was assassinated.
